FOREIGN TRADE ZONE (indicated by arrow) is being proposed by the Tri-City Regional Port District between the Chain of Rocks Canal and Great River Road. The 47-acre zone would be in the Tri-City Industrial Center, a 127-acre industrial park operated by the port district. The mid-December aerial photograph also shows most of the Quad-City area, bounded on the west (left) by the Mississippi River.

Trade zone being sought

The Tri-City Regional Port District filed an application in Washington, D. C. Tuesday to establish a foreign trade zone in its industrial park along the Chain of Rocks Canal here.

The application was filed with the Foreign Trade Zones Board of the U.S. Department of Commerce.

The zone would contain 47 acres, of which 14.74 acres could be designated initially as the active portion of the zone, with the balance for future expansion.

The zone site would be located in the Tri-City Industrial Center, a 127-acre industrial park west of Federal Aid Route 151 (Great River Road) and along the canal.

The application is to be published in the Federal Register next week, and a public hearing will be held in this area in February, leading to a final decision by the foreign trade board on the request.

A foreign trade zone is an enclosed, policed area in a port of entry into which foreign goods may be transported, stored, exhibited, manufactured or reshipped before any duties are imposed.

Import taxes are paid when the merchandise leaves the zone. Damaged goods or re-exported goods are not subject to duty.

Foreign trade zones are designed to favorably impact U. S. balance of trade, payments and to generate employment opportunities, while saving costs for importers and re-exporters.

If the local Port District's application is approved, it is expected that the zone will be utilized by St. Louis metropolitan and surrounding area companies.

"Use of the zone can help keep such companies competitive in the markets they serve," Port Board Chairman John N. Belcoff said.

The application was prepared cooperatively by the Port District and the St. Louis Regional Commerce and Growth Association. Work on the project started one and a half years ago when the Illinois legislature and the governor approved an amendment to the Tri-City Port's enabling legislation, permitting the district to apply for the zone.

"The proposed site is ideally situated for intermodal freight operations."

"The site is served by Route 151, a four-lane divided highway with convenient access to the Interstate highway system," Belcoff commented.

"Rail access is provided to the site by the Illinois Terminal Railroad."

Dr. David Friedman, 65, of 2520 State St., who served the Quad-City community as a gynecologist and obstetrician since 1937, died at 6 a.m. today at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Fiery crash kills Deputy Abel

Madison County Deputy Sheriff James R. Abel, 23, of 724 E. Chain of Rocks Road, Mitchell, was injured fatally when his patrol car went out of control on ice on West Chain of Rocks Road about 300 feet east of Maryville Road, struck a utility pole and burned at 2 a.m. today.

Deputy Abel was responding with red lights and siren to a call to meet an Illinois State Police trooper at Route 203 and Interstate 270 to assist at an accident when his car went out of control on the ice near a curve, left the roadway and slid broadside into the pole. The pole was imbedded in the driver's door about half the width of the squad car.

A resident of Sunny Shores Mobile Home Park, Louis Waterman, was returning home when he saw flames and drove to the accident scene to find Deputy Abel unconscious and pinned in the car. Waterman attempted to free Deputy Abel, but was unable to get to him in the wreckage. The flames had not yet reached the passenger compartment of the car, he told authorities.

Waterman then left to telephone for assistance and when he returned, he found the passenger compartment and the front end of the car engulfed in flames. The Mitchell Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue Unit quickly extinguished the flames, but worked nearly two

Niedringhaus, Marshall and Veeder leadership recalled

(Last of a 104-part U.S. Bicentennial year Press-Record series)

Many milestones in Granite City Steel's history deserve recognition, including the installation of ultra-modern, computer-controlled production facilities in the 1960s and the merger in 1971 with National Steel Corporation.

Another high point was Granite City Steel's 1951 acquisition of blast furnace facilities, making it a fully integrated steel company. Before then, it purchased hot metal and cold pig iron.

A great deal of the postwar planning and expansion occurred under the direction of Hayward Niedringhaus.

"Mr. Hayward" was not a "board room" industrialist or an "ivory tower" elitist. He knew the steel business thoroughly, and from experience.

Just as George W. Niedringhaus had been associated with his father, William, so Hayward served his apprenticeship under the direction of George.

He had not attended college, but had come to the mill at 19 as a laboratory assistant in 1911, and had worked up through various jobs to become general manager of the Granite City Steel Works in 1924, and in 1930

On and off the record 'Cannon' solves Canon theft at local cannon Detective "Cannon" of television fame solves a lot of crimes.

Granite City has its own "cannon solution" this week, but with a small "c."

A pawn ticket among the belongings of a man who was being booked by Granite City police for alleged disorderly conduct Christmas Eve turned out this week to be the key to recovering camera equipment valued exceeding $4,000, taken from Hollywood Andrews Photo Studio, 2118 Edison Ave., Dec. 18 and to the arrests of two men who are accused of that theft.

Fred William Beyrau, 24, of 3101 Jill Ave., and Timothy J. Bennett, 21, who resides at the YMCA in Granite City, were arrested Christmas Eve when they allegedly attempted to enter the Washington Theater, 1336 Nineteenth St., without paying for admission.

While booking the men at the Granite City Jail and taking their belongings for safekeeping, Lt. Harry Mitchell allegedly discovered a pawn ticket among Beyrau's belongings and turned it over to the detective division.

Detectives questioned the two men and went to the pawn shop in downtown St. Louis where they discovered the pawn ticket was for about $800 worth of camera equipment pawned for $100. They also alleged the owner of the shop identified a photo of a man as being the one who pawned the cameras.

Detective Don Knight then reached agreement with the two for their cooperation in return for allowing them to be released from jail during the Christmas weekend. He released them on $25 bond each to appear before authorities Tuesday morning, Dec. 23.

Knight then received an anonymous telephone call telling him he could pick up the remaining camera equipment at 2 o'clock Christmas morning at the cannon on the west side of 24th Street and Madison Avenue and he found the majority of the stolen equipment there at that time.

Knight said he believes the telephone call was from a "fence" who purchased the stolen camera equipment from the burglars.

And, yes, the cameras included a Canon 35mm.

Beyrau and Bennett returned to the Granite City Police Department Tuesday, as agreed, and each was charged with a felony count of theft.

Associate Judge Merlin Hiscox released each on a $5,000 recognizance bond.

Chemotherapy patients fighting malignant diseases need blood

(The last of a three-part series concerning blood availability to all distribution of blood to area hospitals; and collection, processing and research into future usage of blood in preventive medicine at the Missouri-Illinois Regional Red Cross Blood Center, St. Louis.)

By VALERIE EVENDEN
Press-Record Staff Writer

Blood is now free if you are a patient at any of 163 hospitals within a 250-mile radius of the Missouri-Illinois Regional Red Cross Blood Center, 4050 Lindell Blvd., St. Louis.

No longer does a patient have to replace blood on a "two-for-one-pint" basis to an individual hospital's blood bank, nor does he or she pay for the blood product itself.

The only fee returned to the Red Cross by a patient requiring blood is for blood processing, a complicated and precise procedure handled at the Blood Center's laboratories. Blood is available without cost to anyone in need, whether the person becomes an auto accident victim on Interstate 270 while traveling cross-country, or is a cancer patient on chemotherapy needing blood platelets to fight the disease during a lengthy hospital stay.

Starting Jan. 1, 1977, a fee of $25 per unit will be charged for processing whole blood. This charge also covers the cost of transportation, collection and storage of the blood or blood products.

For some time, a charge of $22 has been made for this processing.

Other than for whole blood, processing fees can range from $15 per unit for platelets (used by leukemia and cancer patients) to fresh frozen plasma, $15, and cryoprecipitate, $10, both given to patients who have hemophilia (bleeding disease); and red cells—regular, $20, or frozen, $30, required in most transfusions.

A hospital passes along the processing charge the patient and also adds its own fee for cross-matching the blood to ensure its compatibility with the patient's own supply, transfusing of blood and, possibly, and administrative fee.

These charges always have been paid by the blood-user patient, plus a fee for the blood itself, if the person was not insured under a blood coverage program, or had no donors to replace the blood used on a two-for-one pint ratio.

Emphasis must be placed on the fact the sole funds paid by the patient or hospital to the Red Cross Blood Center is for processing only.

Prior to the new policy of using a central blood bank and processing center, with the Red Cross as the focal point and primary source, many hospitals relied on commercial blood suppliers.

For varying reasons, sometimes these sources of blood and their processing methods resulted in a product of debatable quality.

Four hospitals in the Blood Center's area of responsibility, covering 167 hospitals in the plastic bags containing the blood components are labeled with a number — your number — the one your donation is given when initially received at the center.

That number, replacing your name, stays with your donation, no matter how it is divided, until it reaches a patient and the single pint of blood you donated earlier this week, may reach as many as three to five patients before this weekend.

Thus, a near miracle has occurred.

The gift of one pint of blood from one healthy donor is transformed into these various components to treat many sick people, whose lives may depend on receiving their portion of your blood.

In another laboratory at the Red Cross Blood Center, research is continuing into platelet structure and their future usage for persons unable to produce the essential platelets in their own red bone marrow to assist in blood coagulation and plug openings in blood vessels.

Chemotherapy, using drugs to arrest malignant diseases, destroys the platelets. Hence, the cancer and leukemia patients being treated this way will be unable to produce the essential platelets.

The reference lab deals directly with a hospital experiencing a difficult blood problem. Samples of a patient's blood are sent to the lab, where they are compared and their compatibility is checked against thousands of samples to find a solution.

In still another laboratory, research continues into the processing of white cells for blood banking.

Family studies also are being made here to determine the family member having the most compatible organs with a patient awaiting transplant of a kidney or other vital organ.

An inspection of the blood donor area revealed only two donors giving blood, although the facility is equipped to take 100 donors a day.

This section is used to accept blood from some individual donors, called in because of a specific blood type, and to handle small donor groups which wish to give blood together.

Responsibility for filling the orders of 167 hospitals within the Missouri-Illinois Red Cross Blood Center's region lies with Ben Pino, director of blood components and carries proteins to aid in blood clotting and antibodies to fend off infection. Some donors give only the white cells, the blood element which combats infection.

Using the pheresis technique, the blood is drawn from the arm of a donor and spun down in a centrifuge which retains the required cells and immediately returns the remaining blood components to the donor.

The procedure is safe and simple, but it is not swift and can last one or two hours for some collections. Hence, the time involved becomes a factor in securing pheresis donors.

Importance of the pheresis procedure, however, is far reaching.

Blood components may be given as frequently as four times a week, since the major portion of the blood is returned to the donor in a single procedure.

The pheresis technique is considered one of the greatest medical strides made in the advancement of blood banking and the use of blood components.

Since elements of the blood are being used more and more by physicians as a medicine, medical strides made in this now occupies the major portion of the staff at the Red Cross Blood Center.

Each component requires a different procedure at some point in the processing and must be stored at diverse temperatures.

Platelets, for instance, must be transfused into leukemia or cancer patients within 12 hours of their production, and the production of blood components within four hours of the blood being collected from you, the donor.

All blood donated by you — the volunteer donor — is sent to the Blood Center laboratory.

There, the red cells and plasma are separated in large centrifuges and the plasma is tested for hepatitis and venereal disease. The blood also is typed.

At this point in the processing, the red cells go one way and the plasma another.

Following the path of the red cells, they are first typed as A, B, O, or AB and as Rh type positive or negative.

From the plasma, the platelets, fresh frozen plasma and cryoprecipitate are prepared, or the plasma is further processed to make serum albumin, gamma globulin, plasma protein fraction and antithrombotic factor.

Both the red cells and plasma are returned to the central lab area at this stage and the various blood products are then labeled and stored in numerical order under controlled conditions.

Large room-size refrigeration units are used to store one blood element, while another component is flash frozen and stored between flat metal plates. Rare blood types frequently are stored this way.

A protective agent is inserted into some blood which is removed before being transferred into the patient. The blood remains good for only 24 hours.

NEW TECHNIQUE in blood collection, pheresis (pronounced fo-ree-sis) is a process through which only a specific blood product is taken from a volunteer donor, and the remaining portion not needed for transfusion is returned to the donor in the same procedure. Platelets, red cells and white cells may be extracted separately in a 120-minute period, Miss Margaret Vonland adjusts the pheresis equipment at the Missouri-Illinois Regional Red Cross Blood Center, where two machines are used. Two at Barnes Hospital, also belonging to the Red Cross, are the only other pheresis machines within a 300-mile radius.

Southern Illinois and Eastern Missouri, continue to charge for blood in addition to a processing fee.

The hospitals are St. Mary's and Christian Welfare in East St. Louis and the two City Hospitals in St. Louis. None have yet signed agreements with the Red Cross, although continue to obtain blood directly from the center.

St. Elizabeth Hospital in Granite City was the fifth institution among the 167 hospitals still charging for blood until three weeks ago when an agreement was reached with the Red Cross to eliminate blood charges other than the usual processing fees, plus whatever is levied by the hospital itself for laboratory work and related services.

Before the current blood program went into effect in this region, future blood needs of an individual were insured by joining a group program, or good was donated by family members and friends willing to help reduce the cost at the time blood actually was needed.

Even in these instances, it must be stressed, processing fees were charged the patient, causing many persons to wonder why a donation of blood was necessary.

To better understand the processing of blood given voluntarily by you — the donor — a tour of the Red Cross Blood Center was taken.

Discussions with members of the center's professional and technical staff soon disclosed why a processing fee must be charged.

The center is a labyrinth of modern research laboratories, lined with undefinable equipment, blood refrigeration and storage areas, second to none; and a well-managed packaging and shipping section.

The blood donor facilities are spacious and include an area designated for the new pheresis machines. This equipment can extract a specific blood component from a volunteer donor and return the portion of the blood not needed for a transfusion back to the donor in a single process.

Only four of the pheresis machines are located within a 300-mile radius of St. Louis. Two are at the Blood Center and two others, provided by the Red Cross, are at Barnes Hospitals.

Pheresis donors, frequently members of a patient's family, provide the platelets vital in the treatment of persons undergoing chemotherapy for leukemia and other forms of cancer.

Or, they give plasma, the fluid which suspends other components and carries proteins to aid in blood clotting and antibodies to fend off infection. Some donors give only the white cells, the blood element which combats infection.

Using the pheresis technique, the blood is drawn from the arm of a donor and spun down in a centrifuge which retains the required cells and immediately returns the remaining blood components to the donor.

The procedure is safe and simple, but it is not swift and can last one or two hours for some collections. Hence, the time involved becomes a factor in securing pheresis donors.

Responsibility for filling the orders of 167 hospitals within the Missouri-Illinois Red Cross Blood Center's region lies with Ben Pino, director of ventories and deliveries to each hospital within the center's jurisdiction.

Mrs. Mildred Meacham, executive director of the Tri-City American Red Cross Chapter, said St. Elizabeth Hospital received 886 units of whole blood between July 1975 and June 1976 (fiscal year of the Red Cross).

The local hospital also received 1,323 units of packed (red) cells — cells without plasma used particularly when there is a heart condition to keep volume down and cause less load on the heart; 32 units of Fresh Frozen Plasma — used for treatment of shock; 32 units of Cryoprecipitate, used for hemophiliacs (bleeders); 84 Platelets, the fragile extract used for leukemia and cancer patients and good for only 72 hours; and 126 units of Serum Albumin — given to patients in shock after accidents and to those seriously burned.

A total of 475 Packed Cells and 253 units of Whole Blood was returned to the Red Cross Blood Center, it was noted.

By comparison, 3,369 units of Whole Blood were received at Barnes Hospital, St. Louis; 8,605 Packed (red) Cells; 4,904 Platelets; 1,583 units of Fresh Frozen Plasma; 998 Serum Albumin units; 214 Cryoprecipitate units; and 461 Frozen Cells for patients with rare blood types or with unidentifiable blood group antibodies.

The use of drugs in the treatment of a malignant disease (chemotherapy) has grown substantially in the past year as the supply of platelets has increased. Also, as physicians become aware of platelet availability, more and more are being requested.

Platelets eliminate the need for complete pretransfusion testing, and the long time required for hepatitis testing has reduced the abandonment of fresh blood as a clinical modality and the acceptance of component therapy.

Therefore, the issue becomes very clear, and the stakes are high.

As more and more success are recorded in the fight against cancer and leukemia through the use of drugs, and accident statistics and their victims climb higher and higher, the compelling needs of these patients for blood components rise.

Is anyone that certain he or she or a family member will not be among those less fortunate next Christmas?

Human beings are the only source of that blood — the River of Life.

It's up to us.

Finnings assure opposition in April 5 city election

As of today, two candidates are seeking the mayor's office, two have filed as candidates for city treasurer, and contests have developed for aldermanic posts in three of the city's seven wards.

Filing will continue through Jan. 31, with opposition expected to develop in all of the races for aldermanic posts.

Daniel Partney filed petitions as a candidate for mayor Monday afternoon, followed a few hours later by Mayor Paul Schuler who will seek re-election.

Funeral arrangements are pending at a funeral home in Millstadt.

3-inch snow hits area

The first heavy snowfall of the winter hit the Quad-City area Tuesday night and early Wednesday morning, packing streets with snow and slowing traffic to a crawl.

One Granite City man was injured in an auto accident as a result of slippery sidewalks and a flood of minor auto accidents was reported to local and state police Tuesday morning.

The death of Deputy Sheriff James Abel, 23, while on a call Tuesday night, was attributed to ice on the highway.

Three inches of snow fell in the Quad-City area between 7:30 p.m. Tuesday and about 2 a.m. Wednesday when the fall began slackening. By the morning rush hour, the snow had packed into icy surfaces on highways and streets.

Douglas Greathouse, 48, of 2315 Edison Ave., north of the Granite City Hall, was injured when he slipped on snow and fell into the well of the southbound auto of Raymond Staring at 21st Street and Madison Avenue at 6:10 a.m. Wednesday.

Staring said Greathouse had crossed Madison Avenue and was stepping up the curb when he slipped on the snow and fell backwards into the street. Greathouse was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital where he was admitted for surgery to a broken right leg and also suffered abrasions to his nose and both legs.

Hundreds of persons were late for work because of traffic jams and slow travel made necessary by the condition of the roads.

The Granite City Police Department notified Street Superintendent W. J. Sturdivant, who pleaded guilty Dec. 2 to possession of cannabis, that he was arrested on the scene kneeling beside a vehicle which allegedly contained a plastic bag with more than two pounds of marijuana in it.

Two years of probation also was the sentence for David the night spreading cinder and salt at major intersections.

Street crews also were called out in Venice to salt the deck of McKinley Bridge, and in Madison.

State highway crews also were out throughout the night and on Wednesday clearing the highways of slushy snow. Sunshine throughout Wednesday morning helped melt the ice from streets and highways and most were in good condition by Wednesday evening, except for occasional icy spots.

Sub-freezing temperatures added to the problem. Temperatures fell to 5 above zero Tuesday night or early Friday and rose to a high of 22 degrees yesterday afternoon.

Even colder temperatures are predicted tonight. The U.S. Weather Service said this morning that a low zero is expected tonight or early Friday and Friday's high will be in the teens. More snow is forecast for the weekend.

Four Quad-City area men have been sentenced to serve probation for possession of cannabis on April 30.

An informational document alleged felonies.

Donald E. "Chubby" Long, 19, of 55 Grenzer Homes, Madison, and Andrew Ellis, 17, of 103 Garceshe Homes, Madison, were sentenced to serve two years of probation for possession of cannabis in the Madison County Jail. They are to be released Jan. 2.

The two pleaded guilty Dec. 2 to burglarizing a tractor-trailer truck, parked between Collinsville Avenue and Market Street at Madison Avenue in Venice Oct. 16.

A co-defendant, Joseph L. Hughes, 17, of 181 Garceshe Homes, was shot in a leg by Venice officers during the arrests at the scene. He faces court action on a burglary charge.

Also sentenced to serve two years of probation was James M. Shumate, 20, of 2030 Hildebrand St., Cloverleaf Subdivision, was named in an informational document alleged a felony count of theft. He allegedly assumed control over a rifle and a shotgun belonging to James A. Bradley in the Cloverleaf Subdivision Oct. 30. His bond was set at $7,500.

Gun fired—man arrested

Larry G. Webb, 37, of Rural Route One, Box 419, Granite City, is charged with two counts of aggravated assault, two counts of unlawful use of a weapon and two counts of disorderly conduct after two disturbances in Granite City Monday.

It alleged Webb was the man who entered the Coachman

Store, 2151 Edwardsville Road, purchased two six packs of beer and asked an employee there if he ever had been robbed before displaying a revolver.

The employee said the man placed the revolver on the counter and asked the employee if he wanted to get "messed up right now."

The employee said he talked the man, who appeared to be intoxicated, into picking up the gun and leaving the store.

As the man was leaving, he said he was going to a service station to shoot someone, it was alleged. He then left in an auto northeast on Edwardsville Road.

The employee called police who were searching for the man's auto when they received a report of someone near Coolidge Junior High School firing a gun and threatening people.

Three police cars converged on the area of the junior high school and received a report a man had fired a gun and threatened someone inside Terry's Moto service station, 3200 Namekoi Road, across from the junior high school.

Police entered the station and arrested Webb without incident. They said he did not have a gun in his possession when arrested, but one was found hidden in a nearby towel rack.

They talked to persons in the service station and one customer, Roger Hickman of the 3200 block of Maryville Road, said he had been threatened by a man in the station.

Hickman said he was waiting for a flat tire to be fixed for the truck when a man walked past the window of the service station and allegedly made an obscene gesture toward Hickman.

The man then entered the station and allegedly told Hickman, "The bigger they are, the harder they fall." He then reached into his waistband and removed a gun, waving it around, Hickman reported.

Hickman said he told the man to put the gun away and the gunman responded, "You big guys don't scare me. I told you before, 'I'll drop you.'" Hickman told police.

The man then allegedly pointed the gun into the garage area and fired one shot, which struck a concrete wall. He then turned and pointed the gun at Hickman, he related.

Hickman said he grabbed for the gun, but the man pulled away and said, "Don't try to get my gun. I told you before, 'I'll drop you like a hot potato.'" Hickman said he was taken to the Madison County Jail at Edwardsville.

Police noted the gun they found in the towel rack was five-shot .38 caliber revolver which had two spent cartridges and three in it.

Webb's bond was set by Associate Judge Philip Rarik in Granite City at a total of $10,000 and he was taken to the Madison County Jail at Edwardsville.

Tuesday Circuit Judge William Beatty reduced the bond to a total of $3,000 and Webb was released after posting $300 cash bail.

GC's city building plan still alive

Granite City officials will not abandon plans to construct a new municipal building to house a number of city offices, Mayor Paul Schuler said Tuesday following last week's rejection of a $1.6 million federal grant for building proposal.

Schuler told the Press-Record that he and other city officials do not want to let the federal funding sources in an effort to keep the project alive "because we need the space" for expanding city operations and for a new city jail.

The mayor said that there is a possibility of private financing under a plan by which the city could repay on a regular basis the money advanced for construction of the building. At this point, he said, city officials are not aware of federal funding sources, but he noted that all avenues will be explored.

City Council members in a regular meeting Tuesday night approved the choice approved by the Economic Development agency for allocation of monies for public works projects under the Local Public Works Act.

The only project application in the Quad-City area approved by the Economic Development agency is the city of Venice to rebuild the east approach to McKinley Bridge.

Alderman Roy Poulos of the Third Ward said, "I think it is a lousy house we didn't get our grant."

City Board, alderman of the Third Ward told the council that "We were not even notified that our application had been turned down. I think we are entitled to know why our grant was rejected."

Schuler commented that "It is disturbing to think that we were far more qualified for a grant than some public bodies. I am also disturbed that a city about the same size as ours (East St. Louis) received over $4 million and we didn't get a nickel."

The mayor assured council members that he will write the officials expressing the city's feelings in the matter, and will write to Cong. Melvin Price of this district to learn the grounds on which Granite City was turned down.

The original plan under which the city applied to EDA for $1.6 million called for construction of a municipal building on ground owned by the city adjacent to the main fire station at 23rd Street and Madison Avenue.

Schuler said, however, that if funds can be found for such a building, a location closer to the downtown area would be considered.

The proposed new building would house a new city jail and such city agencies as the air pollution control board, city inspectors' office, zoning board offices and the city engineering department. All major offices such as the mayor's office, the city clerk and city treasurer would remain in the present city hall building, he said.

hours to remove Deputy Abel's body from the car.

He was pronounced dead in the car at 2:50 a.m. by Madison County Deputy Coroner David Partney.

Partney said he believes Deputy Abel was unconscious when he was killed by a solo patrol only about a week when the accident occurred.

His widow, Carol, is expecting her first child in June.

Deputy Abel was a member of Concordia Lutheran Church and was a veteran of four years service in the U.S. Coast Guard.

His father, Robert D. Abel of Ponton Beach, owns Abel's AUTO Body in Granite City. Other survivors include his mother, Mrs. Bertha Abel, and a brother, Danny Abel of Ponton Beach.

Funeral arrangements may be held in today's obituary column.

provided through the Tri-City Port's full-service public port facilities, which can handle bulk cargo, general cargo and container shipments.

The Tri-City Port has estimated the cost of putting the zone into operation at $1,375,000.

Site improvements and building construction would be financed through interim financing and revenue bonding. User fees would be collected to retire the debt incurred.

The Tri-City Port District, which facilities have been in operation since 1965, handled 1.4 million tons of goods in fiscal 1975, about half of it representing import-export operations.

It expects to handle 3.3 million tons by 1980.

Carl A. Ranft, general manager of the port district, said many local and foreign businesses have indicated strong interest in using the foreign trade zone.

Rail crossing at Franko criticized

Chouteau Township Highway Commissioner James Estes told the Chouteau Town Board of Auditors during a board's regular meeting Monday night that Franko Lane in the township cannot be opened until the Illinois Terminal Railroad improves a "steep and hazardous crossing" at the west end.

Estes said no cable or padlock had been stretched across the west end of the road. He said highway department workers placed "road closed" signs at both ends because of the rail crossing.

Madison County Superintendent of Highways Lester Miller said January has urged that the road be open. There was a closing of the road by the township a year ago.

Miller said he examined the road Monday and found the "road closed" signs but nothing preventing cars from using it.

Miller said he noted the condition of the rail crossing and agreed with Estes that the public should be warned before using the crossing, since many cars scrape bottom on the tracks while crossing.

Cooperation is crux of city progress—Schuler

Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler who filed nominating petitions Monday afternoon as a candidate for re-election in the April 5 city election, issued a statement in which he said:

"Four years ago when I decided to be a candidate for mayor of our city, I promised to be a full-time, available and active mayor. I felt that our city needed to get moving again and that the relationship between the mayor and City Council should be one of cooperation for the best interests of our city."

"Now, having served as mayor for four years, these feelings are still uppermost in my mind. I still feel very deeply that the continued cooperation of the mayor and City Council is imperative for the success of the revitalization of our city."

"And I have decided to become a candidate for a second term to attempt to complete the projects that have been started, such as Maryville Road, the 19th Street overpass, the new public buildings and many more."

"As I look back over my first term there is no doubt that there has been a rekindling of the spirit of cooperation, not only between the mayor's office and the City Council but also between all the departments of the city."

"The facts that the pay scale of city employees has been brought more into line with those in private industry, the brighter more cheerful appearance of our city hall and other city buildings, the completion of several pocket parks, the improved traffic pattern, the increase in jobs and employment on our city, the demolition of many hazardous and unoccupied buildings and many others."

"The fact that all of this was financed with only a minimal increase in local taxes through the establishment of greater cooperation with federal and state offices to have our city receive its fair share of federal and state monies."

"I want to take this opportunity to thank the people of our city for their support during my first term in office and to ask for their support for my re-election."

Channel 9 adds 1,899 new members

KETC-TV, Channel 9, gained 1,899 new members and a total of $40,576 from its membership awareness drive, "Fifteen Great Nights of Public Television," Dec. 4-18.

"Fifteen Great Nights" was designed as a preview of the kind of programs Channel 9, the PBS (Public Broadcasting Service) affiliate in St. Louis will be offering to this region as a community service.

The membership drive coincided with the launching of "Something's Happening on the New Nine," a campaign to make more viewers aware of the station and its new philosophy—to bring quality, alternative television programming to the St. Louis metropolitan area of Missouri and Illinois.

Some of the programming changes on Channel 9 include: more programs never before offered in the area; an expanded block of children's programs weekdays between 3 and 7 p.m.; and the move of Saturday morning children's programming to Sunday mornings from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Saturday mornings now include adult programming, with second runs of the previous week's specials scheduled. Classic movies will have weekly long runs on "The Channel Nine Movie Theater" at 10:30 each week-night.

To study joint use of grant

A joint meeting of the two citizens' advisory groups on Community Development of Pontoon Beach and Nameoki Township will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday to discuss possible ways of using a $15,000 grant earmarked for housing rehabilitation.

Nameoki Township, which includes most of Pontoon Beach, received a $15,000 Community Development grant from Madison County for housing rehabilitation from the 1975-76 fiscal year CD discretionary fund.

A separate $9,000 grant application from Pontoon Beach for the same purpose was denied, since Nameoki Township had already received a grant for housing rehabilitation.

Since none of the money has been spent, and since Pontoon Beach officials feel they are entitled to share proportionately in the use of the $15,000 grant, Floyd David Moss, president of the Pontoon Beach Village Board, requested the joint meeting of the two Community Development citizens' committees to discuss a joint program.

Louis Whitsell, supervisor of Nameoki Township, has suggested the money be spent for low-income persons to improve their homes in one of three ways.

Either flat grants can be offered for housing improvements, or grants can be approved for specific improvements, such as a new roof or new porch, or the township and village can offer a percentage reimbursement, such as 50 per cent or 80 per cent, to those who complete housing improvements.

Mrs. Juanita Gault, 42, dies

Mrs. Juanita M. Gault, 42, of 25 Lakeview Drive, Ill. for seven years, died at 2:45 a.m. Tuesday at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Born in Murphysboro, Ill., she was a lifelong resident of this area.

Mrs. Gault was a member of the Pontoon Beach Baptist Church and belonged to the Retail Clerks Union.

Survivors include her husband, Otis Gault; three sons, James Gault of Collinsville, Robert Gault of Washington,

In a letter to the village's citizens' advisory committee, Moss noted the village's request for a $1,400 grant for speed bumps has been denied by the county and therefore has been added to the grant for a small drainage system north of Georgetown Drive, increasing the grant for the drainage system this year from $25,000 to $26,400.

Also approved is $3,000 for road improvements in the Jones Park area of the village, Moss noted.

D.C. Richard Gault of Sparterburg, S.C., two daughters, Mrs. Arnold (Robin) Blanton and Miss Roxanne Gault, both of Granite City; her mother, Mrs. Mary Carlisle of Granite City; two brothers, Clarence Carlisle of Casper, Wyo.; one sister, Mrs. Evelyn Moore of Granite City, and five grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held today. Details are given in the obituary column.

Mrs. Anderson dies at 82

A native of Delta, Ill., Mrs. Anderson resided here 35 years. Mrs. Anderson was a member of the Second Baptist Church. Her husband, Louis Anderson, died in 1966.

Survivors include five daughters, Mrs. Nellie Miller of Dongola, Ill., Mrs. Pearl Keller, Miss Winifred Anderson, Mrs. Arline Kohnst and Mrs. Elvada Wells, all of Granite City; four sons, Arlie and Earl Anderson, both of Granite City, Dwain Anderson of McClure, Ill., and Stanley Anderson of Worden, Ill.; 50 grandchildren, 98 great-grandchildren and five great-great-grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are given in the obituary column.

Ask help in drainage problem

A letter from Nameoki Township Supervisor Louis Whitsell to Russell Robinson, president of the new Metro-East Sanitary District Board of Trustees, was read to the Nameoki Town Board of Auditors during the board's regular meeting Monday night in which Whitsell asked Robinson's assistance in solving drainage problems in the Parkview Estates Subdivision.

In the letter, Whitsell asked the sanitary district, successor to the former East Side Levee and Sanitary District, to consider either filing a lawsuit to challenge a court order now threatening Parkview Estates drainage, or to act promptly in completing pending condemnation suits for rights-of-way so a new drainage ditch can be constructed to drain the area.

He noted the township's highway commissioner presently is under a court order to remove all drainage improvements in Parkview Estates, which could result in flooding of the subdivision during heavy rains this spring.

Appeals of the court order have been unsuccessful and the state Department of Water Resources has suggested either the new sanitary district or the residents of Parkview Estates file a suit to keep the highway commissioner from removing the drainage improvements.

As an alternative, Whitsell suggested Robinson consider reactivating pending condemnation suits for rights-of-way which will allow a drainage ditch to be dug from the Doherty Slough area south along the Alton & Southern Railroad tracks to Horseshoe Lake, thus alleviating drainage problems in many areas of the township, including Parkview Estates.

Mrs. Helen Hawkins, a candidate for township auditor, said from the audience that the former levee board allocated $40,000 for the rights-of-way and that money still is available for the project.

In other comments from the audience during the meeting, some township residents objected to incorrect street signs being erected in the township under the county's uniform road reference sign program.

They contended signs with the wrong names were being erected on some streets.

Whitsell said he would find out who was in charge of that program and attempt to have the errors corrected.

The board approved a transfer within the road and bridge fund of $2,545 from the category of contract work into the insurance category due to the higher premiums the township is paying for workmen's compensation and liability insurance policies.

Bills approved for payment totaled $6,520 from the town fund, $1,016 from the revenue sharing fund, $9,372 from the road and bridge fund, $734 from the special hard road fund and $3,020 from general assistance.

Aid down in 1976

State Public Aid director James L. Trainor this week announced the first yearly net drop in the Illinois Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) caseload in ten years.

He said the decrease is the largest in 26 years.

Trainor attributed the decline, in part, to changes in administrative procedures initiated two years ago to keep ineligible from getting on the rolls.

According to the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the Illinois caseload decrease, which has been consistent for the past eight months, is five times greater than the national trend, which is one-half of one per cent.

HEW June comparisons show Illinois to be the only state with a net drop in the number of persons receiving AFDC assistance in Region V, which includes Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio, Wisconsin, Indiana and Illinois.

After reaching a peak of 806,707 in February 1976, the number of persons listed as eligible in Illinois for AFDC payments dropped by more than 20,000 to 772,039 in November 1976. The number of persons currently receiving AFDC assistance has not been lower since January 1975. Trainor said a similar decline has occurred in all the federally-funded Illinois public aid programs.

After reaching a record high of 1,000,588 in January 1976, the number of persons eligible for assistance dropped below a million — to 995,440 — in November of this year. The caseload has not numbered less than a million since September 1974.

Trainor said, "The first month that over one million persons were eligible for Medicaid was January 1973. That month, 1,006,878 persons received assistance through Illinois Department of Public Aid programs. In December 1973, the figure was still over a million at 1,000,229. "In January 1974, the rolls dropped to 998,198, and by September 1974 had fallen further to 962,925. The downward trend did not continue into 1975, however, and by March 1975 the total rose to 1,006,029 — reaching 1,000,588 by January 1976.

"The decline in public aid caseloads during the past year is attributed in part to reassignment of more experienced staff members to intake, which keeps ineligible from getting on the rolls; revised categorical assistance manuals for the use of each caseworker; and home visits at redeterminations." Trainor concluded, "We consider this data to represent positive proof that correct methods are being used to eliminate ineligible from the caseload and to insure that only needy persons who are eligible for assistance receive it."

Basketball Trojans in championship game of Mater Dei tourney

Coach Larry Graham's Madison High cagers will attempt tonight to become only the third team to capture a third championship in the 12-year-old Mater Dei holiday tournament at Brees.

The Trojans will meet East St. Louis Assumption at 8:30 tonight in the title clash at Mater Dei.

Mascoutah's Indians and the host school previously won three titles. Madison won in 1966 and 1967.

Assumption's Pioneers took the tournament by surprise, knocking off top-seeded Mascoutah opening day and then beating Greenville 76-65 in quarterfinal play and Okaville 54-41 in a semifinal contest.

Assumption entered the competition with one win against four losses.

Madison, now with a 9-1 record, and Assumption have met once during the 1976-77 season, with Madison coming out on top, 69-63.

Madison advanced into the title game with wins over Highland High 74-62, Nashville 77-75 and then Mater Dei 82-52.

Other quarterfinal contests Tuesday saw Okaville beating Central De Bree 74-58 and Mater Dei beating Chatham-Glenwood 77-58.

First-round losers met in consolation games Tuesday in which Springfield Griffin won 79-64 over O'Fallon.

Mascoutah beat the Springfield squad 68-63 in overtime yesterday afternoon and Taylorville beat Sparta 80-64 the same day.

The Indians and Taylorville play this afternoon for consolation honors.

A third-place contest between Okaville and Mater Dei at 7 o'clock will precede the Madison-Assumption contest.

Trojans topple hosts

Madison advanced into the title contest on an 82-52 semifinal win over host Mater Dei Knights yesterday afternoon.

The Trojans led 19-16, 39-30 and 55-38 at the quarters.

Madison made 36 field goals in 56 attempts and the Knights 23 of 58.

From the charity stripe, MHS hit 10 of 12 and Mater Dei six of 14. Madison committed the most fouls, 17-13, but had the fewest turnovers, 12-17.

On the boards, Madison recovered 34 rebounds and Mater Dei 21.

Knight Bruce Geeling, who scored 39 points against Chatham-Glenwood on Tuesday, was limited to 11 points by Madison's defense.

Trojan Randall Jones, who sometimes suffers from early foul trouble, committed only two personal fouls in the contest while putting 25 points on the scoreboard.

Rodney Davis added 20 points, Rodney Cochrell and Ron Williams 10 each. Anthony King six and Sylvester Collins four.

Scoring two points each were Kenny Stanley, Lloyd Williams and James Heard. Eric Stanley scored one point.

Venice High School defeated Columbia 53-51 in its first consolation game on Tuesday.

Venice led 20-16 and 35-29 after the first two quarters but Columbia narrowed the Venice advantage to 44-42 during the third period.

The score was tied several times and Venice held several small leads as the fourth quarter progressed toward its dramatic finish.

Carl E. Lewis Jr., 22, of 1938 Grand Ave., has been released from the Granite City Jail where he had been held since allegedly jumping naked on top of a Granite City police squad car Christmas morning.

He said he stopped to investigate, a naked man came running from the funeral home parking lot and jumped on top of the police car. He then jumped up and down shouting.

Curtis radioed for assistance and began driving the block to the police station. In front of city hall, the man slid from the top of the car in front of the windshield, obscuring Curtis' vision and the patrol car struck the parked car of Patrolman Ira Smith.

Lewis was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct and resisting arrest. He was released to mental health authorities, police said.

Charge nude man jumped on top of police car

Carl E. Lewis Jr., 22, of 1938 Grand Ave., has been released from the Granite City Jail where he had been held since allegedly jumping naked on top of a Granite City police squad car Christmas morning.

Patrolman Bill Curtis said he was driving on Niedringhaus Avenue near Mercer Mortuary, 1416 Niedringhaus Avenue, when he heard someone shouting. He said he stopped to investigate, a naked man came running from the funeral home parking lot and jumped on top of the police car. He then jumped up and down shouting.

Curtis radioed for assistance and began driving the block to the police station. In front of city hall, the man slid from the top of the car in front of the windshield, obscuring Curtis' vision and the patrol car struck the parked car of Patrolman Ira Smith.

Lewis was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct and resisting arrest. He was released to mental health authorities, police said.

The Mitchell fire department was called but a spokesman for the department said everything was under control when firemen arrived.

Youth basketball again offered — 162 openings

YBA basketball — a program that attracted more than 100 youngsters last season — will again be offered at the Tri-City Area YMCA, Donald Rains, program director, reports.

Sign-ups are slated for Jan. 3 at the Tri-City Area YMCA and the Venice Recreation Center.

YBA teams are composed of nine players, and each member must play a specified amount of time. Players wear NBA-style uniforms. The plan was organized by YMCAs and the National Basketball Association.

"Our test of YBA basketball last year at the Tri-City Area YMCA proved that kids are attracted to quality sports programs that put the emphasis on participation, not on the win-at-any-cost aspect."

"It was a great experience for the kids, for parents and other adults involved, and for the 'Y' staff," said Rains.

"Registration will be limited to 162 boys and girls."

"In addition to players, we will provide opportunities for coaches, team and league managers, referees and other volunteers," he said.

YBA players will receive their basketball uniforms, player handbooks written by NBA stars and registration cards.

Sponsors and sources are the Madison County Housing Authority and a special gift made available to expand the program this year by the Granite City Optimist Club.

Hoop shoot Jan. 8

Grigby Junior High School, 3801 Carroll Road, has been chosen as the site of this year's annual Elks "hoop shoot" free throw contest Saturday, Jan. 8. Both boys and girls will participate.

Richard Yates, is the local contest chairman, and the sponsor Elks Lodge 1063.

Competition will be held in three age groups. Registration will be conducted at 10 a.m. on the day of the contest.

The age groups are: Ages 8-9, must not reach the age of 10 before April 1; ages 10-11, must not reach the age of 12 before April 1; and ages 12-13, must not reach the age of 14 before April 1.

Participants in the latter age group are not eligible to compete if they are in the ninth grade or in high school on Jan. 8.

On the day of the contest, youths aged 12-13 will compete from 10:30 to 11 a.m., ages 10-11 from 11:30 a.m. to noon, and ages 8-9 from 12:30 to 1 p.m.

The three winners here will advance to district competition at Paris, Ill.

District victors will compete in a statewide contest at Mattoon, and national competition will follow.

Kankakee Eastridge captures holiday tournament title

Kankakee's Eastridge High School captured the 27th Kankakee holiday basketball tournament last night with a 47-37 win over Willowbrook.

The win marked Eastridge's first holiday tourney title since taking top honors back in 1968.

GCHS South's Warriors, participating in the 16-school tourney for the first time, suffered a 50-40 first-round loss Monday to Kankakee Westview and was then eliminated from the competition upon losing 72-57 Tuesday to Herscher High in a consolation bracket game.

Westview went on to defeat Oak Forest 54-50 last night in a third-place game.

Other than Coach Don Deterding's Warriors, first-round games played Monday saw Oak Forest win 69-58 over Joliet East, Bradley 50-46 over Evergreen Park, Marian Catholic 76-48 over Monmouth, Eastridge 82-52 over Hinsdale South, Willowbrook 38-34 over Naperville, Waukegan West 70-50 over McNamara, and Morris 71-55 over Herscher.

Waukegan, and Westview 66-45 over Morris.

Eastridge then beat Oak Forest 67-57 yesterday in a semifinal contest and Willowbrook beat Westview 59-48 in another semi-final game yesterday.

Other than the GCHS South's Warriors, participating in the 16-school tourney for the first time, suffered a 50-40 first-round loss Monday to Kankakee Westview and was then eliminated from the competition upon losing 72-57 Tuesday to Herscher High in a consolation bracket game.

Joliet defeated Monmouth 88-59 to advance into the consolation final, and Naperville defeated Herscher 59-40 to advance also.

Joliet East took consolation honors with a 44-41 win yesterday evening.

Warriors eliminated

GCHS South's basketball Warriors returned home Tuesday night from participation in the 27th annual Kankakee holiday tournament after being eliminated in their initial consolation game, 72-57 by Herscher on Tuesday.

GCHS South trailed Herscher 15-10 after the first quarter and then gained a 31-27 halftime lead, aided by 10 points garnered by Warrior John Slay.

South was held to nine points in the third period and Herscher led 49-40 going into the fourth quarter before further expanding the lead.

The Warriors experienced early foul trouble, Dave Rhodes going to the bench with five called against him with two minutes left in the second quarter.

Slay went out at the start of the fourth period and Greg Feigl departed on fouls with four minutes to play.

South held the edge from the floor, making 26 field goals in 60 attempts to Herscher's 24 of 59.

Herscher won the contest from the foul line, sinking 24 charity tosses including 12 in the final period. South made five successful tosses.

South committed 27 fouls and Herscher 14. The Warriors had 29 rebounds and the visitors 27.

Slay provided 17 points, Tim Anderson 11, Feigl nine, Tom Mah-Rhodes four, and Terry Jones, Rhodes four and Terry Jones and Roland Hurt, two each.

South now has a 7-6 record for 1976-77 and will resume regular season competition on Friday, Jan. 7, at Cahokia.

Westview impressive

Against Kankakee Westview Monday night in the Kankakee holiday basketball meet, Granite City South trailed 12-2, 29-21 and 61-30 at the quarters before bowing 59-40.

Tom Henrich prevented a first-quarter shutout by Westview with a Warrior basket three seconds before the buzzer.

"Our shooting wasn't up to par," South mentor Don Deterding conceded.

"We missed 10 attempts from the field in the opening period and lost the ball on turnovers four straight times without getting a shot."

Westview made the most field goals, 20-15, and free throws, 19-18.

South committed the most fouls, 19-13, and trailed in rebounding, 39-21.

Dave Rhodes topped South's scoring with 12 points. John Slay had 10, Henrich eight, Greg Feigl six and Tim Anderson four.

Area beef clinic

By RON CORNWELL
County Agricultural Advisor
Madison County beef
producers should mark
Tuesday, Jan. 11, on their calendar. This is the date of the Area Beef Cow-Calf Clinic to be held at Augustine's Restaurant in Belleville. The program begins at 9:30 a.m. and continues until 3 p.m.

According to the 1975 Illinois Crop Reporting Service, we have 31,900 head of cattle in Madison County. Our beef producers should have a high interest in this program.

The program will feature four University of Illinois Extension specialists.
Dale Vanderholm,
agricultural engineer, will discuss storing and handling animal waste. Planning and operating any beef production system requires special attention to waste handling problems. This means a major investment of both time and capital.

D. E. Erickson, agriculture
economist, will cover beef cow herd costs and returns. Illinois beef cow herd cost and returns will be compared with other states in the Corn Belt. A special focus on the calving percentages, heifer
replacements, calving weights and feed cost will highlight the presentation.

Erickson will also look at the relationship of profits in the various stages of the cattle cycle.
Beef cow numbers have declined during the past year, signaling the deceleration
phase of the cattle cycle.
Large losses suffered by cattle feeders in 1974 have been transformed into lower prices for calves and beef cow herd losses in 1974 and 1975. Producers are improving with higher calf prices and should continue to improve in 1977.

Dr. M. E. Mansfield, extension veterinarian, will cover the health problems of a beef cow herd. Pneumonia seems to be the number 1 calf health problem this year.
Hert Weichenbach, Extension

beef cattle specialist, will discuss beef herd management.
He will concentrate his presentation on an update on beef cow nutrition.
The third annual Southern Illinois Bedding Plant School has been set for Jan. 13 at Belleville Area College, Route
161 east of Belleville. The program starts at 9 a.m.

It will be of special interest to our Madison County bedding plant growers. The featured speaker will be Dr. Raymond Sheldrake of Cornell University.
Also appearing on the morning program will be University of Illinois Extension specialist
J. W. Courter, G. M. Foster and Renee Randall of Belleville.
In the afternoon, greenhouse tours have been scheduled under the guidance of M. C.
Carbondale.

Dr. Sheldrake is one of America's leading authorities and popular speakers on bedding plants.
He is widely known for his work on plastic greenhouses, and also developed the Cornell soilless mixes. He will cover growing bedding plants from A to Z.
For additional information on the bedding plant school, Quad-
City area may contact the Extension office in Edwardsville.

its president as well as general manager.

His first-hand knowledge, combined with imagination and confidence, enabled him to plan and follow through a modernization and expansion program started in 1935, a "daring program which brought good jobs and stability to the employees as well as an industrial backbone for the community," historians relate.

"Opinion is that Hayward, like his father, had a deep-seated sense of responsibility toward his employees and a profound interest in the community."

"He was interested in people as individuals — sincerely concerned about their personal welfare. He knew thousands of men by their first names and seldom failed to use the correct one as he greeted a man in his office, at the plant, or on the street."

"He often expressed regret that his increasing and complicated duties in later years prevented his making a daily visit to the plant to greet the men as he had formerly done. All of his ambitions were centered in the success of the company and those who worked for it."

The long hours of work required on the modernizing program were a severe strain. Problems of the Depression and of the community, and the hundreds of details involved in the direction of the enterprise, were loaded on his shoulders.

World War II added many weighty problems, and the postwar reconstruction created even greater ones, gradually, his health began to fail.

On July 7, 1949, he was stricken and died of a heart attack at his summer home in Rockport, Mass., where he was resting.

Hayward Niedringhaus died confident that his dream of a modern steel plant in Granite City had been realized. Today, as then, the plant is one of the most modern in the country and stands as a tribute to his foresight, leadership and courage, experts in the steel industry say.

The company had been started in 1878 by two brothers, William F. and Frederick G. Niedringhaus.

On July 12, 1949, five days after the death of Hayward Niedringhaus, N. B. Randolph, a veteran of 29 years with the company and formerly vice-president and general manager of sales, was named president of the Granite City Steel Company.

At the same time, John N. Marshall, of Pittsburgh, who had served on the board of directors and the executive committee here for 15 years, was named chairman of the board.

Erwin Niedringhaus, the younger brother of Hayward, was thus the only remaining member of the founding Niedringhaus family still active in the administration of the company.

A member of the board of directors, he became assistant to the president in addition to his other duties with the company, and later was vice-president in charge of plant sales.

In a statement issued shortly after his election, Mr. Joseph announced his intention to maintain the standards set under the leadership of his father, Niedringhaus.

"Under the leadership of Hayward Niedringhaus, the Granite City Steel Company lived by high standards of industrial performance, progressive company policies and good citizenship. As president, it will be my primary objective to see that these standards are maintained."

On Aug. 26, 1949, Randolph became seriously ill and was confined to the hospital for some time. John N. Marshall assumed full charge and immediately laid plans for further development and expansion of the company.

Marshall was born in Pittsburgh in 1897.

His father, Charles D. Marshall, was a steel man who founded the firm of McClinton-Marshall in 1901, a steel construction enterprise which became one of the country's leading firms in the field. He also was a director of Granite City Steel.

After being graduated from Lehigh University in 1920, with a B.S. degree in civil engineering, John Marshall became a member in a foundry. He subsequently worked for the Koppers Co. in Chicago for two years.

In 1925, he joined his father's company in Pittsburgh and, during the next six years, gained wide knowledge of all phases of the business.

When McClinton-Marshall was absorbed by Bethlehem Steel in 1931, Marshall went to work for Bethlehem. In 18 years there, he contributed to the direction of sales and the manufacture and fabrication of the company's products.

He left Bethlehem Steel in Aug. 1, 1949, to become chairman of the board of directors of Granite City Steel Co. On May 23, 1950, he was elected president to succeed Randolph.

Iron Age described him as a man who "has taken over a well-built little kingdom, and it is going to be an empire. Because Mr. Marshall is a man who sees. Empires are built by men who see possibilities."

The Korean War found the United States, during the second quarter of 1950, producing steel at a rate of 10,000,000 tons annually or 11,000,000 tons more a year than the industry produced in 1944, the peak year of the World War II production, when output was 89,651,000 tons of ingots and castings.

Despite the industry's tremendous postwar increase in steelmaking capacity, steel Niedringhaus family still was in the administration of the company.

A strike loss of 29,000,000 tons of ingots during the years since 1946 — more than 10,000,000 tons in the latter part of 1949 and early 1950.

2. An unprecedented peacetime rate of steel consumption by the automotive, construction, and oil and gas industries.

3. Large-scale inventory buying by steel consumers.

4. An increase in the number of manufacturing firms in the U.S. from 22,900 in 1945 to 286,400 in September 1949.

5. New military requirements.

When the United States found itself faced with the potential threat of a third world conflict, the federal government called upon steel companies to expand the steelmaking capacity of the nation by 20 per cent.

This was the atmosphere and the opportunity which stimulated Granite City Steel's next period of expansion.

The management considered the company's actual and potential market, and decided it would be feasible to further expand facilities in order to integrate operations and to supply more fully the indicated needs of its market territories.

This was to be no ordinary expansion. In three years, Granite City Steel was to be converted from a semi-integrated to an integrated steel company and its productive capacity almost doubled.

In the period 1950-51, the company spent in excess of $24,000,000 to modernize and expand its plant and facilities, and increased its total assets from $11,747,000 to $44,229,000.

In the period 1951-52, it was to spend more than twice the previous 15-year total, and increase its total assets from $44,229,000 to $120,000,000.

As it developed, the new program was to include purchase of the Missouri-Illinois furnaces of the Koppers Company — including two blast furnaces, 49 coke ovens and a byproducts plant — and construction of 27 new coke ovens.

It also was to include three new open-hearth furnaces, a $27,000,000 blooming mill, a $16,000,000 four-high reversing roughing mill, three new slab furnaces, and other new or modernized facilities.

Such an extensive program could have been undertaken in one large step or in a series of smaller steps. To expand completely at once would tax the credit and efforts of the personnel of the company, but a gradual program would enable the transition to be systematic and would permit the earnings from the first portion of the program to minimize the credit extension.

The second alternative was selected, and the company took the first step.

On May 12, 1950, it borrowed $5,500,000 on promissory notes bearing interest at 3 1/2 per cent and maturing serially over a period of 15 years. Proceeds were used —

1. To retire all bank loans and other term indebtedness.

2. To provide for certain contemplated expenditures.

3. To add $1,000,000 to the company's working capital.

This consolidation and funding of short term indebtedness relieved the company of near-term maturities and placed debt retirement on an annual basis of $366,000, with no additional contingent charges.

As the expansion plans developed, the directors considered it advisable that the company obtain additional capital through the issue and sale of 99,414 shares of common stock without par value.

On Aug. 22, 1950, the company offered to the holders of its common stock the right to subscribe to one share of common stock for each four shares then held at the price of $33.

Aggregate net proceeds from this sale, amounting to $3,359,000, were added to the company's general funds for further plant improvements and expansion.

The year 1950 — the last full year before the new expansion program was to begin — marked the fourth successive year of production and shipment records. That year, ingot production was almost 662,000 tons, an increase of 22 per cent over the previous year's record of 532,000.

Ingot production was not only 50 per cent in excess of the first normal postwar year (1947), but more than two and one half times the prewar (1939) level.

Shipments followed essentially the same trend, as the company shipped 556,000 tons as compared with 446,000 tons the previous year. Net sales totaled $59,782,000, an increase of 29 per cent over 1949.

As more and more steel rolled out of the mill, employment and payroll figures moved steadily

Baucum out of Venice mayor's race; will leave public office

Henry Baucum, 68, of 1000 Market St., Venice, announced Wednesday he will not be a candidate for mayor of the city of Venice and plans to retire completely from public office.

Baucum is now city treasurer. "I am withdrawing because of two reasons. First my family is not in favor of it, and second I felt I was not drawing enough support from south Venice. I will not seek public office at any level. I simply want to retire and enjoy life a little," Baucum told the Press-Record.

Although it has not been announced officially, it has been reported locally that William E. "Willie" Griggs, 1030 Market St., Venice, currently a building inspector for the city, will run for the treasurer's office on a ticket headed by Venice Mayor William "Mike" Ebersold.

Baucum had said earlier that he planned to make the race for mayor in opposition to Ebersold.

Filing of nominating petitions in the Venice city election will open Jan. 10 and will continue through Feb. 14. Venice voters will elect a mayor, city clerk, city treasurer and four aldermen in balloting to be held April 19.

SHOOTS AT HOUSE
Four or five bullets were fired at the home of Dale Orr, 2415 Benton St., at 12:55 a.m. Tuesday, the bullets breaking the front window and front door. Police recovered two spent slugs inside the house. There were no injuries and Orr told police he does not know who might have damaged the house.

Net income after taxes reached $5,727,000, the highest on record. The company paid a cash dividend of $4.25 per share, or a total of $1,888,877. The price of the stock on the New York Stock Exchange increased to $45.75.

Generation-age statistics are dwarfed by those of today, but were significant at the time and served to perpetuate Granite City Steel's success story, now in its 90th year.

Nicholas P. Veeder links the Marshall era with that of the National Steel Corporation years, serving as the former's successor and continuing today as a key member of the latter's board of directors.

George A. Sinsaw was chairman and president of National Steel at the time of the merger five and a half years ago and remains the parent company's top officer as chairman of the board.

Howard "Pete" Love succeeded Veeder as president of Granite City Steel.

When Love advanced to the presidency of National Steel, Robert D. McBride became president of the Granite City Steel Division.

Improved city services are pledged by Partney

Daniel Partney, candidate for mayor of Granite City in April balloting, issued a statement Wednesday explaining why he is seeking the mayor's post. The statement follows.

"I am running for mayor of the city of Granite City because I believe that our community has become stagnant."

"I believe this has happened because of the loss of industries and jobs, decay of our downtown area, increased violent crimes, decay of sanitary sewers without positive solutions, fiscal irresponsibility, the result of the necessity of using federal revenue sharing money for salaries of employees instead of for community upgrading which is the specific purpose of such funds, and the ignoring of the needs of our elderly citizens by the city administration."

"Also, traffic congestion problems due to poor planning without positive plans and specifications, storm water drainage problems in certain areas without any positive action, and failure to promote pride in our community by more neighborhood renovation projects."

"I want to take my campaign to where the people are, so that specific concerns can be discussed in neighborhood forums where I will invite all candidates to exchange ideas on all vital areas." Partney concluded.

Dixon of Belleville emerging as top Democrat in Illinois

State Treasurer Alan J. Dixon, who in January will become the new Illinois secretary of state, is increasingly also becoming the state's key Democrat next month due to his election success, the death of Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago and the absence of Democrats in most of the other state offices.

As a Belleville resident who has chalked up three increasingly spectacular statewide victories, Dixon has no role in Chicago city issues but already is playing a part in Illinois' Democratic deliberations and seems likely also to be an advisor on legislative stands and elections.

He has indicated he may repeat an intra-party caucus to avoid a repeat of the 93-ballot 1975 competition for the position of House speaker. The 80th General Assembly will convene two days after new state officials are sworn into office on Jan. 10.

Against the background of a possible 1978 primary race between Dixon and outgoing Governor Daniel Walker, (D) for the right to oppose two-way Gov. James R. Thompson (R), Dixon is suggesting as much Assembly cooperation as possible with the 1977-78 chief executive of the state.

Although it is an unusual arrangement, Dixon is pleased that Thompson has agreed to appoint as the new treasurer Donald Smith (R), who has high-level experience on Dixon's staff. Smith plans continuity of policies and personnel, and will not seek election to the office.

Dixon initially favored another aide, Joseph McMahon (D) but Walker declined to make a commitment to McMahon or any other Democrat acceptable to Dixon. As a result, Dixon will delay his resignation until after Thompson has taken office and assumed appointive power, denying Walker a power base in the treasurer's office.

Walker may have been handed a "party loyalty" issue but Dixon stresses the importance of assuring the continuation of efficient procedures in the treasurer's office.

Walker also has a ready-made issue against Thompson over the salary level of state officials, but one wonders whether Walker's brand of verbal assault used devastatingly to chop at Paul Simon, Richard Ogilvie and then Michael Howlett—will retain its effectiveness with voters indefinitely.

As secretary of state, an immensely broad-based office in Illinois, Dixon will not have long to prove himself, nor can he build a major patronage army as was possible in past years. But his success as a legislator and treasurer indicate he is well equipped to continue the secretary of state improvements launched during Howlett's 1973-76 term.

Sad conclusion that all 'missing in action' are deceased

Press-Record Washington Bureau—A House committee has concluded extensive investigations, which included a trip to Hanoi, and has reported the "sad conclusion" that all Americans considered missing in action in the Vietnam war should be considered dead.

There is no evidence that any of them are still alive, the final report said.

The Pentagon has held up for the past 18 months its case-by-case review of the facts on the 761 Americans still listed as missing or prisoners of war.

Now, that moratorium will end, and the status of these persons will be changed from "missing" to "dead" on an individual basis. That has been the outcome in every case reviewed so far.

The National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia has expressed concern that the congressional investigation was inadequate.

A final accounting for all 2,546 Americans not fully accounted for in the war is impossible, the congressmen concluded.

But continuing efforts must be made to get information, and possibly the remains of some of the missing men, from the Vietnamese, the Pathet Lao and the Cambodians.

Old year ending with series of unhappy monetary reports

The year just ending brought many positive occurrences, including the U.S. Bicentennial observance. But few people will be sad to see it depart tomorrow night, after this week's flurry of unenvying news events.

The latest monthly report, for November, shows the largest month trade deficit in America's history. Imports exceeded exports by $905 million, topping the August 1974 red ink of $888 million. For the first 11 months of 1976, the deficit is more than $5 billion, weakening the stability of the dollar.

The United States has slipped from fifth to sixth in per capita income, its $7,060 yearly figure trailing Kuwait, United Arab Emirates, Qatar, Switzerland and Sweden.

The national budget deficit was over $20 billion for the first two months of the new federal fiscal year that began Oct. 1, following a $65 billion record deficit in the 1975-76 fiscal year.

And some experts are predicting continued inflation despite growing surpluses in most commodities, due to disarray in the world's money markets and failure of traditional supply and demand factors.

For New Year's party conversation, we recommend omitting these four topics, new as they may be. Or, if they do arise, perhaps a horn or noisemaker can be utilized to drown them out.

Precedent to choose judges by appointment

Committee on Courts and Justice

The federal system of appointment of judges by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate for life terms has generally been superior to the state system of forcing judges to campaign as Democrats or Republicans and to secure the favor of party bosses for each new term in office.

Even in the federal system, the Presidential custom of naming the nominees of the state's senior senator of the President's party has introduced politics from time to time.

The depoliticizing of the appointment of state court judges had its origins in the Middle West, even though our state, Illinois, has lagged behind the majority in adoption of reform.

As a young law professor at the University of Nebraska, the great Roscoe Pound told the American Bar Association in 1906 that election of judges was responsible for popular dissatisfaction with the administration of justice.

President William Howard Taft said the same thing to the ABA in 1913.

Then, in 1914 in Illinois, it was Professor Albert Kales of Northwestern University who suggested that fastening responsibility for appointment upon a highly visible appointer—be it the governor, the highest appellate court, or the chief justice—would be superior to the present system of appointment in secret by what he termed "politicians."

"Nothing of great value can be accomplished until it is recognized that the judges in the metropolitan district are certain to be appointed and that the only proper appointing power is one which is conspicuous, legal, subject directly to the electorate, and interested and responsible for the due administration of justice."

"(Any) model of appointment by the governor, since it is conspicuous and legal, and since the governor is directly subject to the electorate, carries with it a measure of responsibility which is not found where the appointment is secret and by the politocracy of the extra-legal government."

"Appointment by the governor is better than the present misnamed plan of popular election."

"It might be suggested that the power of appointment could be lodged in the highest appellate tribunal of the state. This again is, no doubt, open to objections."

"But, again, it could not possibly be a worse method than the one now employed. Judges of such courts are more easily than governors made responsible for the due administration of justice."

"No method could be worse than that which we now employ. Appointment by the politocracy of the extra-legal government is so obscure, especially when effected by primaries, that they are under no responsibility whatever in naming judges and

Interim sulfur dioxide rules needed

To the Editor:

Under Illinois law (P.A. 78-1099), the Illinois Pollution Control Board (PCB) is required to adopt regulations specifying the conditions under which existing fuel combustion sources (utilities, industrial boilers) can use "intermittent control systems" in lieu of compliance with sulfur dioxide emission limitations.

Purpose of the legislation, approved Sept. 30, 1975, is to "alleviate the energy crisis and to preserve the Illinois coal industry."

The PCB is conducting hearings on proposals (R78-9 and others) which would permit some of intermittent control systems, including "tail stacks," as an interim program for achieving and maintaining ambient air quality standards.

An additional hearing is scheduled for Jan. 12, 10 a.m., at the University of Illinois Circle Campus, Chicago.

The Illinois Manufacturers' Association recently testified before the PCB, urging adoption of such regulations. Highlights of IMA's testimony include these major points:

1. The 1975 annual average for SO₂ shown by the 65 Illinois Environmental Protection Agency reporting stations was 0.1 ppm—one-third of the federal primary ambient air quality standard.

To the Editor:

Service to the public is the issue, the Continued Action Party (CAP) is seeking for selection of Nameoki Township officials.

Candidates of the Continued Action Party are: Louis Whitsell, supervisor; Frank Mehlisch, for highway commissioner; and Kenneth Gien, for assessor; and Loren Madison, for assessor; and Kenneth Gien, Harlan Pervan, Andy Besserman and Helen Hawkins, for trustees.

The voters of Nameoki Township have shown faith in me in the past and I am encouraging each voter to vote the Continued Action ticket on April 5.

We have known for some time now that a new slate of candidates had to be formed, because many of the present township officials have failed to consider the needs of the people.

They knew that I could not support them for re-election and I announced I would resign. The present highway commissioner refused to cooperate with the people long ago. His refusal, coupled with the fact that he allowed a long and unnecessary union strike to ensue, has caused a strong disagreement between us.

Says 'Red' issue an unfair tactic

To the Editor:

This letter is in response to your editorial discussing serious questions presently facing steelworkers. This letter aims to set the record straight.

I. W. Abel, current president of the Steelworkers union, has said that he will resign if Ed Sadowski wins the Feb. 8 election for union president.

This is an election threat against those of us who work the mills. Abel is saying that if we don't play ball with him, he'll make his glove and ball go home.

Perhaps it is a promise. Many of us steelworkers feel that I. W. Abel quit working for us a long time ago.

We welcome Sadowski's leadership—the sooner the better.

Abel's call for a Senate investigation of the financing of the union election campaign is a publicity stunt aimed at attacking Sadowski by smear and innuendo. Sadowski welcomes such an investigation.

Let the rank and file of the union know where Sadowski's opposition gets its money.

Abel's "official family" political slush fund for the so-called Fund for Continued Leadership raised more than $100,000 in contributions for use by Ed's opponent in the election for District 31 director.

In this election, Sadowski's opposition has requested regular contributions from USWA staff in amounts ranging from $25 to $500, including $1,000 donations from USWA department heads.

Non-USWA members Lane Kirkland and Murray Finley have been actively fund-raising for Lloyd McBride.

The charge of "outsiders" supporting Sadowski is a phony one. It is well known and documented that Abel supported Tony Boyle in the 1972 United Mine Workers union election.

Home and address must accompany each letter but will not be revealed if anonymity is requested. Communications of less than 250 words will be given preference. All are subject to condensation and grammatical changes. These letters or not in good time will be featured in the Forum.

The U.S. EPA has generally refused to allow tail stacks and intermittent control systems unless scrubbers were also used, citing the "CHESS" studies as supporting this stringent policy.

Now, the studies have been found to be of no quantitative value, and rife with shoddy research methods, by the Environmental Subcommittee (part of the Science and Technology Committee) U.S. House of Representatives.

According to the subcommittee's "very critical" report in November 1976, "The data and analysis in the 1974 monograph do not provide a reliable, quantitative basis for relating SO₂ or sulfate levels to human health effects."

The Illinois Pollution Control Board is mandated by state law to adopt regulations permitting the use of intermittent control systems as an interim measure to permit greater utilization of Illinois coal.

In view of the foregoing, including the subcommittee's finding of no quantitative basis for relating SO₂ or sulfate levels to human health effects, the fact that over a year has passed since adoption of P.A. 1099, the board should act quickly to adopt reasonable regulations.

Cooperation, service seen as issues

The present town clerk is a wonderful person, but he lacks time to do his job while working straight days at Granite City Steel. His office staff has seen him only a couple of times in the last four years.

The present assessor has kept busy running to the county for tax assessment adjustments. We formed a tax protest group and many people were successful in receiving lower assessments. Then he disregarded our efforts and raised them back again. He, too, has turned the office over to someone else while he works a day.

I had nothing personal to gain by disagreeing with another elected official. However, I do believe the people elected me to stand up for them.

In the eight years that we have served Nameoki Township, only Mr. Gien has stood up for the people. The programs that have been implemented. None of the others offered anything except criticism when we put things together.

But in spite of this burden, we have brought Nameoki Township from an obscure and ineffective operation that experienced financial problems, to a strong, thriving unit of local government, by encouraging citizen participation, by sound business management through investments of idle funds, and by paying close attention to state and federal grants that are available to us.

When an agency of government at any level, finds itself unable to continue providing good service, it not only threatens the safety and well-being of its own citizens, but it frequently places an unexpected burden upon adjacent governments.

The Road District is a separate government from the township, although township supervisors gets blamed for what the highway commissioner won't do.

Therefore, we need full cooperation between all levels of government.

I truly believe that the people of Nameoki Township are aware of the facts and will elect persons who will be dedicated public servants.

We have such a group with the Continued Action Party—outstanding men and women, who will present themselves to the public in the next few months and who many already know from their past service to the people.

LOUIS WHITSELL

Supervisor, Nameoki Township

ratify contracts, union dues and the extended negotiating agreement.

Sadowski stands for democratic and aggressive unionism. Why do Abel and McBride fear this so much?

It is easy to understand why Bruce Johnston, chief negotiator for the 10 major steel companies, would interfere in the election as he has done.

Clearly, the steel companies do not look forward to negotiating with tough leadership with tough tactics.

What is so tragic is that we have gotten to the point in our union where our union president has joined forces with the companies in a double-barreled attack on the ideas and programs of Ed Sadowski.

Sacred Heart scene of Smith-Kazman wedding

Sacred Heart Catholic Church was the scene of the wedding on Dec. 11 of Miss Kathleen Kazman, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kazman, 2572 East 27th St., and Ernest Smith Jr., a son of Mrs. Mary Smith, 161 Sunny Shores Mobile Home Park.

White floral bouquets on the altar and sprigs of holly and pine tied with white satin bows on the pews provided the setting for the double ring ceremony performed at 2 p.m. by Father James P. Hill.

Miss Beth Dowdy attended the guest book at a reception held at 6 o'clock in the evening at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

Nuptial selections included "Time in a Bottle," "My Sweet Lady," "The Wedding Song" and "Follow Me."

Escorted to the altar by her father, the former Miss Kazman, selected a full length white gown of satin and lace with an Empire bodice featuring a yoke of Venice lace and pearls and a high neckline. The long full sleeves were cuffed with bands of matching lace, repeated at the waistline and hem of the skirt and full sweep train.

She wore a Venice lace cap etched with pearls to secure a double tiered veil of bridal illusion bordered with lace. Her bridal bouquet was an arrangement of snow song roses, stephanotis, snow drift with fresh holly and blue ornaments.

Sisters of the bride, Mrs. Barbara Wilkinson and Mrs. Mary Ann Becker, served as honor attendant and bridesmaid.

They wore floor length powder blue silk gowns designed with open collars of royal blue velvet to accent the long sleeved matching jackets which were also cuffed in velvet.

Each attendant carried a cascade bouquet of blue snowdrift, holly and pine intermingled with tiny blue ornaments and tied with blue velvet ribbon.

The flower girl, Theresa Crites, wore a long pale blue crepe dress fashioned with a lace panel on the front trimmed with lace.

She carried a basket of blue blossoms, holly and blue ornaments.

Robbi Becker, a nephew of the bride, served as the ringbearer.

Daniel Smith, a brother of the groom, was best man and Charles Jaycox was groomsmen.

P. J. Wilkinson and David Smith escorted the guests to their seats.

Mrs. Kazman was attired in a long silver gray and apricot silk gown worn with a satin bordered chiffon capelet and carried a silver purse topped with an apricot cymbidium orchid.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Smith, appeared in a lavender polyester crepe fashioned with a lace bodice. She wore a lavender cymbidium corsage.

The bride graduated in 1975 from Granite City High School. Her husband received his education and diploma while serving with the U.S. Army. He is now employed at Western Janitorial Service.

Out of town guests included Mrs. Mary Smith, Clayton Smith both of Taylorsville, Ill., the Rev. and Mrs. Gilbert Best of Tovey, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kelley, Mrs. Mary Jane and Mrs. Karen Herrin, all of Wood River.

Finally. A do-it-yourself, tax-deductible retirement plan that has broadened in eligibility.

Germania Federal has the perfect retirement plan for people who are self-employed or not covered by an employer's plan.

A plan that is so simple you can set it up yourself. And lets you deduct your contributions to the plan—up to $1,500 per year—from your taxable income.

It's called an Individual Retirement Account, and you can open one at any Germania Federal office.

Eligibility has recently been reviewed and broadened to include members of the Armed Forces Reserves, National Guard, and volunteer fire departments.

While your money is in a Germania Federal Retirement Account, it earns interest, of course. Taxes on this interest are also deferred until retirement time, which is a further saving.

Come let one of our people show you how easy it is!

MRS. J. STEVEN HAMM The former Miss Cindy Lou Wallace whose wedding was solemnized at Niedringhaus United Methodist Church. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Wallace Jr., 3117 Myrtle Ave.

Cindy Wallace becomes Mrs. J. Steven Hamm

White poinsettias arranged at the altar with white and gold bridal candelabra holding burning tapers, and green satin bows marking the family pews, provided the setting at Niedringhaus United Methodist Church for the wedding on Dec. 18 of Miss Cindy Lou Wallace and J. Steven Hamm.

Organist Miss Lisa Grootenhuys played "In The Presence of The Lord" and "Let It Grow" by Eric Clapton, preceding the service.

The Rev. Roy Baugh officiated at the double ring ceremony at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Wallace Jr., 3117 Myrtle Ave. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Hamm, 2533 Adams St.

Escorted down the white carpeted aisle by her father, the former Miss Wallace, chose a full length victorian style ivory polyester gown fashioned with an Empire bodice, delicately traced with Venise lace which was repeated on the stand-up collar and encircled the high rise waistline.

Matching lace accented the long full sheer sleeves and formed the tightly fitted cuffs. The semi-full skirt and train were also bordered with Venise lace.

She wore a Juliet headpiece to secure her lace trimmed veil of bridal illusion and she carried a cascade of red Forever Yours roses intermingled with variegated greenery and festooned with ivory ribbon streamers.

Maid of honor Miss Kathy Griffin selected a victorian designed floor length dress featuring a molded bodice and long sleeves in ivory polyester trimmed with antique lace and a copper satin skirt terminating with a ruffled flounce.

Her bouquet was a cascade of ivory pom poms, gold bells and greenery tied with ivory satin streamers.

The groom chose his cousin, Eric Cruise, as best man. Joseph Wallace III, a brother of the bride and Robert York, served as ushers.

Guests were received by the newly married couple at a reception held at Roustio's Restaurant in Collinsville. Mrs. Christine Wallace, a sister-in-law of the bride, presided over the guest book.

The bride attended Granite City schools, Ursuline Academy, Arcadia, Mo. and the Belleville School of Beauty Culture. Her husband is a Granite City High School graduate and is presently attending Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

They are residing in Madison following a wedding trip to the Missouri Ozarks.

MRS. ANGIE HARTMAN ENTERTAINS CLUB Mrs. Angie Hartman, 2300 State St., was hostess to the Thursday Evening Bunco Club, last week, in her home. She used circlelets of evergreens centered with holiday candles as the table decoration, for the evening luncheon.

Those winning prizes were Grace Parmley, Velma Radefeld, Myrtle Bruns and Bea Beck. Also present were Alice Koester, Lorine Menzies, Lucella Propp and Celeste Johnson. After the games the members held a gift exchange. Mrs. Johnson will host the next meeting.

The girls were instructed by Karen Rose, teacher of the oral deaf at Johnson School.

Girl Scout troop uses sign language

Girl Scout Troop 313 was featured, along with other pupils, in the annual Christmas program presented last week at the Parkview Parent-Teacher Association meeting.

The Girl Scouts performed "The Little Drummer Boy" in sign language to background choral music to highlight the event, held at Parkview School. The girls were instructed in the sign language technique by Karen Rose, teacher of the oral deaf at Johnson School.

Troop 313 members also performed a "Festival of Giving" under the supervision of their leaders, Sandy Peterson, Diane Zarlingo and Sonya Niemeyer.

"Christmas in Song" was another segment presented by the sixth grade chorus, directed by Mrs. Mary Jane Foster, vocal music teacher, accompanied by Mrs. Cathy Casey, fifth grade teacher at the piano.

Numbers included "Winter Holiday" by Paulson, "Sing We Noel," a French carol, "Born Today" by Ellers; "I Hear Bells" by Chaplin; "Do You Hear What I Hear" by Regency; and a spiritual, "Go Tell It on the Mountain."

Third grade pupils of Mrs. Katherine Gregus and Mrs. McBride were spotlighted in a musical play, "Christmas at the North Pole," narrated by Coleen Ryan, a third grade student.

Mrs. Pat Bieniecki, PTA president, conducted a short business meeting. She announced a gift from the PTA was delivered to Mr. and Mrs. John Terry Dutko, 2537 Buenger Blvd., parents of triplets, Debra Sophia, David Michael and Denise Mary, born Oct. 31.

The Dutkos have two other children, Tina, a fourth grader and Terry, third grade, both students at the school from the PTA leaders. Combined cost of the items was $1,100, which was derived from a successful candy sale, Mrs. Bieniecki reported.

The gifts included a "fatty" mat for the physical education department, a stereo-recorder player for use in the music department, a kin for the art classes, a camera and all-weather floor mats.

Meters back Monday; some find parking spaces scarce

Some merchants and downtown officials are disagreeing as to whether free parking meters in the downtown area during December were successful in attracting customers, but all agree the plan would have worked better had there been a two-hour limit on the free parking.

Free parking downtown will end Monday. Melvin C. Wilmsmeyer, president of First Granite City National Bank and chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Downtown Development Committee, the committee which coordinated the free holiday parking plan, said Tuesday he feels the free parking was a good idea, "and, in most cases, worked."

He said the plan depended upon an "honor system" in which store employees would not use the prime parking spaces, forcing customers of downtown stores to walk long distances to shop.

Without a time limit, however, some employees, some office workers, and a few bus commuters, used some of the prime parking spaces to park all day free and there was some shortage of parking spaces, Wilmsmeyer noted.

He added a similar system should be used next Christmas shopping season, but with an enforced two-hour limit to keep abuse of the free meters to a minimum.

One downtown merchant affiliated with Downtown Granite City, Inc., disagreed, however, with the statement the system worked in most instances.

"There was a mistake made. There was no place to park and there were not too many people downtown shopping," the merchant stated.

He said a parking limit is essential to keeping convenient parking spaces open at all times for shoppers. "We could even do without parking meters all year long, but we would have a lot of trouble."

enforce the time limits," he added.

He said he has watched numerous downtown employees all year around who feed the parking meters every two hours without ever moving their cars.

"That's so cents to park all day, which is not too expensive. As far as I am concerned, these people are breaking the law, as much as those who let the time on their meters expire," the merchant contended.

Free downtown parking was limited by City Council ordinance to the month of December, but paying for parking actually will resume Monday, Jan. 3, since Saturday is a holiday and no parking fee is charged on Sundays.

Mrs. Lunsford dies at 21

Mrs. Margaret Lynora "Lyn" (Gover) Lunsford, 21, of 2133 Benton St., died at 3:50 p.m. Monday at Jewish Hospital, St. Louis. She had been ill 16 months and hospitalized one week.

Born in St. Louis, Mrs. Lunsford resided here 10 years.

Mrs. Lunsford was a member of Jehovah's Witnesses. Survivors include her husband, Larry Lunsford, one son, Larry Lunsford Jr., and a 10-month-old daughter, Angela Ruth Lunsford, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Gover; two brothers, Richard D. and Ronald Gover; and one sister, Miss Cheryl Gover, all of Granite City.

Services were held Wednesday. Details are given in the obituary column.

Bank workers provide gifts for youngsters

In keeping with the American tradition of helping others, employees of the American National Bank, Nameoki and Fehling Roads, took Christmas gifts for needy children to the bank.

Just before Christmas, members of the Quad-City Ministerial Association collected the gifts from under the bank's Christmas tree and distributed them.

This is the third year employees of American National Bank have held this special yuletide service project.

Browning infant dies Sunday

Danyal L. Browning, 4-month-old daughter of Danyal and June E. Browning, 1911 Sixty St., Madison, was pronounced dead at 10:45 p.m. Tuesday at St. Elizabeth Hospital after emergency room personnel tried for 30 minutes to revive her.

The infant girl had been ill since Monday and was treated and released from the hospital emergency room at 11:30 p.m. Monday with a high fever.

Tuesday morning, the child was still running a fever and the mother took her to see the family physician, who treated her and sent her home.

Tuesday night, the fever continued and the mother administered sponge baths and kept checking her temperature. The mother said she left the child's room for a few moments to answer the telephone and when she returned, she found the child had stopped breathing. She called for an ambulance and the infant girl was taken to the emergency room.

Also surviving is a grand-mother, Mrs. Mary Browning of St. Louis.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Friday at a St. Louis funeral home. Burial will be in National Cemetery, Jefferson Barracks.

Driver named on 5 charges

David Ely, 24, of 1932 Rhodes St., was charged with leaving the scene of an accident, damaging city property, not having a city sticker and two counts of reckless driving after his auto allegedly was involved in two accidents about 7:50 p.m. Monday.

Ely and a passenger in his car, Mrs. Tammie Ely, 17, of the same address, were injured in the accidents and were treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital where he was admitted and she was released after treatment. It is alleged Ely's auto first struck the parked car of Robert Forsee in front of Forsee's home at 1349 Meridian Ave., then came to rest across the street on the curb, 15 feet away from where it struck the parked car.

A witness said Ely's car then backed up and left south on Meridian Avenue.

Moments later, the northbound auto went out of control on Nameoki Road near Faith Avenue, ran over the curb, struck a no parking sign, a street sign and the Assemblies of God Church sign, and then crossed Nameoki Road and went into St. John's Cemetery, damaging the grass.

The driver and passenger allegedly left the scene on foot and were found at a home in the 2900 block of Marshall Avenue.

Ely suffered injuries to his ribs and underwent a series of x-rays before being admitted to the hospital. Mrs. Ely was treated for a bruise to her right upper arm and was released before being released.

FIND STOLEN CAR

The auto of Everett Brown, 2741 Harvey Place, Apt. 114, stolen from his apartment's parking lot between 9 p.m. and 10:15 p.m. Monday, was recovered by Illinois state police near Fairmont City early Tuesday.

Burglary at Tri-Mor Bowl

An undetermined amount of change and several bottles of liquor were stolen during a burglary at Tri-Mor Bowl, 3701 Nameoki Road, discovered Monday.

Entry was gained by prying out the exhaust fan and louvers on the east side of the roof. After gaining entry to the attic, ceiling tiles were walked on, some of them breaking. Entry to the bowling area was gained by dropping from the ceiling.

In the bar, the liquor cabinet was ransacked with some liquor stolen. Seven pinball machines and two foos-ball machines were damaged with the bottoms broken out and the coin trays removed.

A clothing hanger rack was believed used to pry open a lock and had on the inside of the door double doors and the doors were used to exit the building.

$1,595 burglary

Items with a total value of about $1,595 were stolen during a burglary at the home of Raymond C. Sampson Jr., 306 Maryville Road, between 6:30 p.m. Monday and 3 a.m. Tuesday.

Entry was gained by forcing open a south door from the breezeway. Two windows were broken with a rock and three others were opened and left open.

Stolen were a $400 television set, a $140 television, a $250 tape player, a $500 wristwatch, binoculars, a $400 portable radio, a calculator and about $80 cash.

GC Steel seeks expanded contact with community

Increased contact by Granite City Steel with the Quad-City area, the surrounding region and the state is being encouraged by the local National Steel Corp. division, President Robert D. McBride is telling area organizations.

A public relations director has been designated, and speakers are being offered to school classes, McBride has noted. Granite City Steel was one of those hosting teachers at this fall's Business-Industry-Education Day tours.

A telephone line (451-EASY) enables Quad-Cityans to learn of local developments affecting the plant and the corporation, and the same phone service permits GC Steel employees to submit suggestions and to obtain answers to a wide range of questions.

The division president is a member of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce and Granite City Rotary Club. He is enthusiastic about the corporation, and also the undertakings of the Regional Commerce and Growth Association and Illinois State Chamber of Commerce. Many other plant staff members also are active in local organizations.

McBride has utilized a local theater to assure direct communication between himself and all supervisory personnel, and has expanded managerial training to include "sensitivity" sessions.

Other programs include employee assistance through counseling on individual problems; physical examinations; company expense; and affirmative action.

ROBERT D. MCBRIDE

hiring and promotions. McBride believes the 98-year-old steel mill should be not only a major employer and taxpayer but also actively involved as a citizen and "good neighbor."

While seeking to provide input for local and statewide governmental processes and decisions, Granite City Steel also recognizes the value of cooperation with governing bodies and agencies on matters contributing to the overall good of the public, McBride adds.

"We recognize a growing number of responsibilities and see them as opportunities to help the community and region."

"We believe in communication and understanding. As advocates of free enterprise, we want to do all we can to enable people to learn what our business is all about," he concludes.

Following rules is a way of life

The people are friendly, it is a highly controlled society and following the "rules" to the letter is a must, were the general opinions of Rotarian James Cromer who returned last week from a month's vacation in the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics (Russia).

Cromer spoke to the Wednesday noon meeting of the Madison-Venice Rotary club in the Madison Recreation Center.

"The people are openly friendly, but building a relationship of lasting relationship would be most difficult," Cromer said. "I would definitely say Russia is a highly controlled society in every area of the life style. The people have a thing about following the rules. They seem to follow rules like a most truly devout person would follow what the church says. People simply do not question rules."

"They have fewer cars than we have, but we did have a traffic jam in Moscow. Their cars are all concentrated in the large cities."

"There is the presence of wealth among people in Russia, but it is different from ours. You see a man with a large car and a chauffeur. He will have complete use of both, but the government will own the car and pay the driver."

"There are shops where visitors trade and the government would you to use your American money in them. The shops basically are for tourists. The government does not want you to get much Russian money, that way the Russian people can not get it."

"I was surprised when I paid for a dinner in a fine Moscow restaurant with my American Dollars Club credit card."

"Prices are really not much different in Moscow, but the quality of merchandise is very poor."

"Crime on the streets is not heavy, because there are too many people out walking around. It is an apartment-style living and the people all go out for walks at night."

"Public drunkenness is a real problem in Russia. They serve vodka in water glasses and you will see people literally fall off their chairs stone drunk in good restaurants," Cromer said.

Rotary President W. F. "Mick" Strange announced that there will be a business meeting next Wednesday.

Today and Friday sessions are scheduled from 1 p.m. to 3:30 p.m., and from 7:30 p.m. until 10 p.m.

Saturday sessions will be held from 1 p.m. until 3:30 p.m., and from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m., Brown advised.

2 are charged with burglary

Randall K. Parks, 20, of 2807 Circle Drive, and William P. Karius, 21, of 1101 Rear Grand Ave., Madison, were charged Monday with the Dec. 19 burglary at the home of Marian Sullivan, 2827 Circle Drive.

Granite City police detectives said a lengthy investigation led to the recovery of a television, vacuum cleaner, radio, coffee maker, crock pot and clock stolen from the home, and to the two arrests.

Also taken were a turkey and some meat from the freezer of the home. A north door was forced open to gain entry.

Parks was released on a $15,000 recognizance bond and Karius was released on a $7,500 recognizance bond.

Car theft charge

Gary Overturn, 17, of 2335 Benton St., was charged Monday in St. Louis with possession of a motor vehicle without the owner's permission after he allegedly was stopped by Fifth District St. Louis officers at about 8:20 p.m. Monday in an auto stolen from P&S Amusement Co., 2301 Washington Ave.

A juvenile passenger in the car also was taken into custody and faces juvenile court action. The car was taken between 4:15 p.m. and 5 p.m. Monday, company officials told police.

Granite City police also have signed a warrant alleging a felony count of theft against Overturn which is to be served when the pending St. Louis charge against him has been disposed of.

Clothing, toys, candy, staple and household items, a Christmas tree and nearly three cases of canned goods were presented each family. The annual project was financed with profits from a "Fun" auction held Labor Day weekend at Bull Shoals Lake, Mo.

Madison Sr. Citizen party

Members and invited guests of the Madison Senior Citizen's met last week at the Madison Recreation Center for their annual Christmas party and gift exchange. Turkey and all the trimmings were served. Each table was covered with a white cloth and centered with red and green streamers, and Christmas candy at each place setting along with various gifts.

Mrs. Dorothy Bridick, club president, called upon the Father Conrad Motola for the blessing prior to the dinner hour. Among those seated at the main table were Mayor and Mrs. Mike Sasyk the Rev. and Mrs. Edward Weston and

Summer auction results in gifts at Christmas

Back in late August, the Bubblemasters Scuba Diving Club began preparing for its annual Christmas project through which four families in need receive a large array of gift items during the holiday season.

To finance the yearly project, club members attempt to outbid each other for a variety of donated items. The proceeds then are added to a special fund to defray expenses of the Christmas program.

The auction takes place during the Bubblemasters' Labor Day weekend dive at the Pontiac Boat Dock on Bull Shoals Lake, Mo.

Jack Richardson, a past president, has served as auctioneer for the past few years and frequently coerces members to purchase their own donated objects, Larry Aerne, club president, said.

At the last auction, Dr. Chris Geroff "got into the spirit of bidding" and acquired a lamp he had donated, the club officer reported.

With the money raised, augmented by donations from individual divers, the scuba club provided a "complete" Christmas for four needy families in Madison and Granite City. Fifteen youngsters are locked in the four households, Aerne said.

Each family received about three cases of canned food items, clothing, staples and household items, toys, candy and a Christmas tree.

The gifts were delivered by Dale Orr, Randy Viessman and Aerne, who commended Avery Schermer of Schermer's Supermarket for helping the club in the project.

Holiday party of Butterfly Club

The Butterfly Club held a belated Christmas dinner party at LaCocca Restaurant in St. Louis on Tuesday evening followed by an exchange of gifts. Members also honored Elaine Rosenberg with a birthday gift.

Members met in the home of Mrs. Karl Hommer for a cocktail hour, prior to attending the dinner.

Others present were Mesdames Irene Willis, Mary Lou Clausen, Thelma Schmid, Harriet Hoff, Lorraine McIlvay, Edith Ryan, Hazel Rollins and Neil Talley.

Mrs. Ryan invited the group to meet in her home for the next meeting.

Party for Madison school secretaries

Educational secretaries working in the Madison School District gathered Monday evening at Charlie's Restaurant for a holiday dinner party.

Gifts were exchanged and the group enjoyed a social evening. Among the school secretaries attending were Miss Edna Mae McLinn, Mrs. Joyce Walker, Mrs. Bernadine Weidner, Miss Karen Hansen, Mrs. Etta Banks, Mrs. Gladys Watts, Miss Loma Lassen, Mrs. Janet Spitz, Mrs. Delores Brunick and Mrs. Diane Hollis.

Guests were Mrs. Yvonne Davis, mother of Mrs. Hollis, and Mrs. Evelyn Holt, district cafeteria director.

U.S. Bicentennial year brought a variety of news

REBUILDING LOCKS at Chain of Rocks Locks 27 was a high priority task of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers during 1976. The locks had to be closed on different occasions, including this time in July when all the water was pumped out to permit filling parts of the hollow concrete walls. This view is from the top downward into an 82-foot-deep lock area. Work on repairing the locks will continue in 1977.

OPTICOM SIGNALS which at major intersections turn traffic lights green for oncoming emergency vehicles while halting traffic from other directions. The signals were considered one of the major achievements during 1976. Municipal officials are shown here examining one of the new control units as it went into use at 23rd Street and Madison Avenue in June.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE No. 12 caused about $100,000 damage to Granite City Furniture Co., 2007 Madison Ave. The blaze was one of several substantial fires in the Quad-City area during 1976. Some, including this one, were believed started by vandals.

ROUTE 151 PROGRESS, welcomed by many as the new highway took a more definite shape during 1976. When completed early in 1977, this part of the Great River Road will be a major link between the western area of Granite City and McKinley Bridge-Broadway in Venice and also may be used by many commuting from Alton to St. Louis.

1976—a year to remember for Quad-Cityans

BOMBS FOUND June 18 in the 2800 block of Harding Boulevard were one of the mysteries of 1976. Authorities were unable to explain why someone placed two bombs, each containing four live sticks of dynamite hooked to a timing device, in yards across the street from each other. Shown are bomb expert Ronald Gröp of St. Louis, left, and Granite City Police Sgt. Mike Devine, holding one bomb in a bag.

(Press-Record Photo)

UNSOLVED MURDERS of Richard and Anna Kube, found slain in their home at 2476 Iowa St., March 4. The case led to the most intensive police investigation in the history of Granite City. The couple was found strangled by electrical cords in the basement of the Kube home. Police detectives say the case is still open and the investigation is continuing. Other Quad-City murders were solved.

STORE COLLAPSE onto the sidewalk on 19th Street at Delmar Avenue March 25. Falling bricks, beams and wood struck two cars and narrowly missed several pedestrians. The burned-out building formerly housed the Dorian Bridal Shop and had burned Aug. 13, 1975. The building collapsed while Granite City Street Department workers were demolishing it. There were no injuries.

(Press-Record Photo)

LONG-AWAITED COMPLETION of the Broadway underpass in Venice during 1976 was a triumph for Venice city officials who had struggled for 10 years against "red tape" and other hurdles to provide a separation between Broadway auto traffic and long trains at the former Broadway crossing. Trains now travel over the bridges seen above the autos.

TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS continued in the news during 1976. More than two dozen persons lost their lives in Quad-City area accidents in 1976, an average of one every other week. About 1,100 persons also were injured in traffic here during the year. Shown is an accident April 12 in which George Salisbury, 63, Pevely, Mo., lost his life and his son was injured when their tractor-trailer overturned near Interstate 270 and Route 111, dumping the damaged section in the foreground from the trailer bed.

(Press-Record Photo)

RELIGION AND PATRIOTISM were combined as Quad-Cityans celebrated the nation's Bicentennial with numerous observances, including a gigantic July 3 parade from Granite City through Madison to Venice. This float deals with the part religion has played in America's history. Pictures in the 1976 review were taken by Walter "Mick" Strange, Gary Schneider, Joseph "Pat" Foley and Ken Thompson.

No. 29 34 12 30
The Student Work and Financial Assistance Office at SIUE has announced a tuition and deferment schedule for the winter quarter.

William Burns, associate director, said deferments will be issued on Jan. 3, 4, 8 and 7 from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. To accommodate students attending night classes at the university, deferments also will be issued from 5 p.m. until 7 p.m. on Jan. 3, 4 and 5.

Students will be unable to obtain deferments if they have any unpaid obligations at the university. Accounts receivable items range from unpaid parking tickets and overdue books to past-due, short-term loans. Burns said.

All of these debts must be cleared at the bursar's office before a deferment can be issued.

Students having verification that they will be receiving financial aid will be able to receive deferments if they agree to pay all accounts receivable when they receive their aid.

Those wishing to obtain deferment must apply in person to the Student Work and Financial Assistance Office and must have in their possession a No. 3 card, according to Burns.

Those registering at open registration must also submit their fee assessment cards.

Opposing tickets file in Nameoki Township election

The two opposing parties seeking elective office in Nameoki Township filed petitions of candidacy at the same time Monday evening.

Town Clerk Douglas Teator set 6 p.m. Monday as the first time to file petitions, and said representatives of both parties were on hand when he arrived at the town hall to receive the petitions.

"Since they were both there before 6 p.m. and waiting for me, I just marked both sets as being filed at 6 p.m.," Teator told the Press-Record.

Position on the ballot, normally decided by who files first, will have to be decided by a flip of the coin or other method, one township official noted.

Parties which filed are the Continued Action Party and the United for Progress Party.

Heading the Continued Action Party is the incumbent township supervisor Louis Whitsell, who is seeking re-election. He also is a member of the Madison County Board.

Others in that party are Frank Mebelic, highway commissioner candidate; Louis "Cookie" Zezoff, candidate for town clerk; Freida Ballew, tax collector candidate and Loren L. Madison, tax assessor candidate.

Candidates for trustee in the CAP organization are an incumbent, Kenneth G. Gieson, and newcomers, Harlan "Van" Pervan, Andy Beserman and Helen M. Hawkins.

Heading the United for Progress Party is Harold W. Davis, president of the Long garage was "a fight between two neighbors."

"We are not the fighting kind of people and I don't want people to think we are," Mrs. Monken said. "My husband wanted to build a garage and we were only following the regular procedure in going to the Board of Appeals and the City Council," she said, adding that "there was no fight. We are friends (with the neighbors)."

The discussion involved a request by Ralph Monken for a permit to build a garage 3 1/2 feet from the property sideline, a request that was opposed by Claude Meyers, 1817 Cottage Ave. The council granted the permit.

Protests remark by GC alderman

Mrs. Ralph Monken, 1521 Cottage Ave., said Tuesday that she felt that remarks made by a Granite City alderman during the Dec. 21 council meeting in a discussion of a request for a zoning variance were untrue.

She referred to a remark by Seventh Ward Alderman Emerald Dawes who had said that a controversy over a permit for construction of a garage was "a fight between two neighbors."
